

Interview with the American Conversation Assistant

By Carolina Pérez Moreno

Hello ladies and gentlemen, I'm going to tell you about the interview with Anna, the native English speaker teaching at IES Profesor Andrés Bójollo.

When she arrived, I started the interview asking about herself. She answered that she lives in Gig Harbor, a city near Seattle; she was born in Tacoma, Washington and has got a brother and a sister.

After, we talked about Spain and she said that she loves it, how the people live here and she likes learning about a new culture too. Also, she told me that it's her third time in Spain and she has some friends from Big Ben Academy.

Then, I asked her about her travels and she responded that she has visited twenty countries because of her mother's work. In Spain, she has visited Córdoba, Sevilla, Toledo, Madrid, Barcelona, and her favorite, Granada.

Next, we talked about what she likes and she told me a lot of things; her favorite color is blue and her favorite number is seven, her favorite band is Fleet Foxes, and her favorite book is The Book Thief. Something important that I asked is if she likes Harry Potter and she answered that she loves it. When we talked about her hobbies, she replied that she used to sing when she was little but now she prefers to dance.

I finished the interview asking about her studies and her dreams and she responded that she studied Creative Writing and Anthropology at Washington State University, starting when she was eighteen. Her dream is to be a documentary filmmaker.

In the end, I thanked her for coming to help us and for answering my questions.

Thank you Anna.
